

The Piece of String Has an End

Hosted by Groundbreakers, a group of North West coast residents working together to establish a natural burial ground in our region. We will be meeting at Sandridge Estate, Sisters Beach, a beautiful bushland setting which is just what a natural burial ground can look like! Come together with like minded people, curious onlookers and affiliated groups for a fun and insightful morning tea. Activities involving 'the end of the piece of string' have been planned to stimulate discussion and facilitate action regarding end of life choices and ecologically responsible burial practices.
